

Kivalliq Energy Corporation
Executive Summary - Amendment Application, 2BE-ANG0813

Kivalliq Energy Corporation conducted a modest field program in 2008 and a small exploratory drill program in 2009. A small camp, the location of which was selected using maps, was established during winter to support these exploration programs. The area around Yat Lake, where the camp was erected, is low lying and has significant willow vegetation cover. Last year, the camp was moved back 175 metres from shore due to concerns of high water during freshet or heavy rainfall. After two summer programs, Kivalliq Energy Corp. feels the area is not ideally suited for continued use, or to support year-round programs. We are therefore seeking approval to relocate the camp.

In 2008 photographs were taken from the air of the surrounding area in order to locate a more suitable location for the camp. Two locations were selected for future ground truthing. In 2009 personnel visited these locations, along with regulatory Inspectors, to verify their suitability. A final location was selected and the accompanying amendment application requests approval to relocate the camp to this more suitable site.
