Re.: Follow-up Report Spill #2023-146 – Release of 170 L of Arctic diesel (P50) at the Nutaaq Camp, Angilak Project

On April 12rd, 2023, the Nunavut Spill Line was notified by APEX Geoscience personnel via email (spills@gov.nt.ca) of a spill of approximately 170 L of Arctic diesel (P50) at the Nutaaq Camp, Angilak Project site (spill location coordinates: 62° 34′ 16.59"N, 98° 27′ 21.14"W). This follow-up report provides supplemental information based on the results of the incident assessment and is being provided in accordance with:

• the Nunavut Water Board License #2BE-ANG2227, Part H Item 4 section C.

Description of Incident

During the late Fall of 2022, a powerful windstorm ripped through the Nutaaq Camp, displacing 7 tents off their bases, moving some of them approximately 30m in total (See first photo in the Appendix). Upon the Spring Mobe crew arrival on April 11th, 2023, a tent fuel supply drum was found upside down behind tent W2, off the stand and next to the berm, all displaced by the force of the wind exerted on the tent and the tent stove inside dragging the connected fuel drum with it in the process. The hose was snapped off by the force and the drum subsequently emptied itself (photos in the Appendix).

No water bodies were impacted by this spill. The closest water body (unnamed lake to the East) is approximately 172 meters east, as seen in Figure 1.

Spill Response and Remediation

The immediate response from the Spring Mobe crew was to pick up the empty P50 drum. A shovel was used to try and scrape the contaminated frozen sand together. Instead, the frozen material was left for approximately two weeks to thaw by the sun, resulting in 1.5 inches being scraped together as indicated by the photos in the Appendix. The contaminated sand was placed in a labelled, lidded drum filled to 1/3. The process will be continued upon return in Summer when more thawed contaminated sand can be dug up with shovels and the CanDig mini excavator on site.

Root Cause and Corrective Measures

An assessment was conducted soon after the incident occurred to determine the root cause and contributing factors. The assessment concluded with the following:

- A late Fall windstorm violently move the tent with the tent stove attached to the P50 supply drum, resulting in the near full drum of P50 being jerked off the drum stand, even missing the berm, this fall caused the hose to be ripped off the drum valve, since the drum landed on the valve side, it emptied itself then.
- The drum was left filled and connected to act as 1 of 3 tents for survival purposes when opening camp during extreme temperatures in early March.

The following corrective and preventative actions have been implemented to address the root causes and to reduce the likelihood of reoccurrence:

- During late summer when camp is prepared for winter, all fuel supply hoses will be disconnected from the 3 emergency tent stoves albeit they are being identified as a survival measure.
- Before the supply hoses are disconnected, the valves will be closed and the hoses drained.

Appendix – Photos

Spill File 2023-146: ValOre Metals Corp., Nutaaq Camp, Tent fuel supply drum behind Tent W2. Remediation conducted: April 13 and 26, 2023.

Tent moved from left to right, jerking the drum right off the stand, after the stand and drum was dragged out of the berm. Drum drained when hose was severed by the violent jerking of the tent which was connected to the tent stove inside the tent.

Area in between drum stand and berm to be cleaned.

Upside-down drum with valve buried in the sand, hose severed right off.

Drum bung imprint in the sand.

Contaminated sand was left exposed to the sun since Apr 13 to try and melt the sand but only about 1 inch could be scraped off.

Thawed contaminated sand scooped up, about 1 inch thick.

Contaminated sand inside lidded drum.

Thawed contaminated sand scooped up and put into lidded, stencilled drum.
