Phyllis: With the purchase of Wolfdensources by Zinifex, we are in the position of having and expanded exploration budget for High Lake for 2007. As a result, we will likely wander away from the few lakes that we had indicated in our application for the water license. The other aspects of the drilling will remain identical. We will still consume the same quantity of water, have the same number of drills and personnel, etc. The only difference will be that a few more lakes will be accessed for water. We will, of course document the location and volumes of water use as the year goes by. I had a brief discussion with Dave Honstein on this and he recommended that we send in a letter with a map as a courtesy so that there is documentation on file before the annual report comes in with the lakes indicated on it.

Attached is this letter and map. The area of potential water taking covers our entire claim block, but as I say our activities have not changed in magnitude.

I trust this is in order. If you have any questions, please call me at your convenience.

Regards:
