I would also like to point out that the land use permit associated with this project expired July 17th, 2013. A final plan was required to be submitted, as per section 33 of the Territorial Land Use Regulations. To this point, no final plan has been received by our office.

Hi Christine,

Myself and Denise Lockett are progressing through the NWB renewal and subsequent AANDC renewal/reapplication and will keep you in the loop.

Thanks,

Tony.

Hi Ken,

Could you include me on all correspondence regarding progression on the file. I have not received an update as far as progress but I may have not been included on the distribution list.

Thank you,

Hi Christine

Our Project Manager for Nunavut will be addressing this issue early next week – he is currently in the bush but will be coming out on the weekend. We will get the permits updated asap and hopefully be able to spend some time up there in the upcoming field season.

Regards,

Ken Wheatley

Subject: Forum Uranium Corporation, Judge Camp, Kivalliq--Water Licence 2BE-SCH0712 Land Use Permit N2007C0017

Good Afternoon Ken, Matt and Rick,

I want to inquire about Forum Uranium's Judge Camp, Judge Sissons Lake, Kivalliq Region, Nunavut.

During 2012 an inspection was completed of the Judge Camp though it was not active and not covered under this Water Licence. The Inspector specifically referenced the expiry -of the Water Licence and the Land Use Permit which authorizes the fuel storage- as an issue. Though the project is not in operation Forum is still require to report to the Nunavut Water Board, pay outstanding water use fees, renew/amend the water licence and maintain appropriate authorization to cover the entire scoop of the project.

I have attached a copy of your Water Licence for your convenience. I remind you that Forum Uranium Corp. is bound by all the terms and condition of this water licence regardless the expiry.

Please provide a written update as this site has been tentatively scheduled for inspection this year. I can be reached by phone 867 975 4296 for assistance or discussion.

I look forward to a prompt response. I would like to thank you now for your time and attention to this matter.
