Hi Richard,

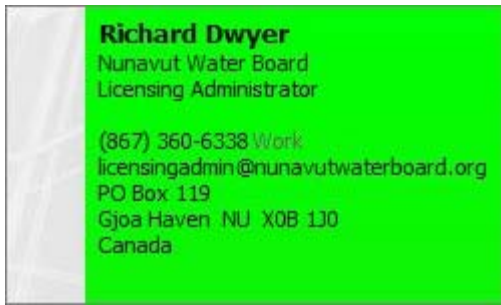

Yes, I think this is fine, particularly if water licenses are usually in the name of the institution. If you would like to be more specific, you could certainly go with 'University of Colorado Museum of Natural History' which is my primary home, but this museum is at the University of Colorado – Boulder campus (so either would probably be fine).

Thanks,
Jaelyn

Than the name on the water licence will be the University of Colorado?

Hi Jaelyn;

No worries, the name on the water licence will be liable for the cost of remediation or any spills that may occur on site, usually water licences are in the name of the institutions.

Regards,

Dear Richard,

That's a good question. I'm the individual leading the fieldwork on Ellesmere (i.e., the applicant or Principal Investigator), BUT the University of Colorado is my affiliation or home institution. Could you recommend which would be best?

I know that with regard to Nunavut CLEY permits, I believe the permit is made out to me – as the applicant (as opposed to my institution).

Thanks, and I'm sorry that I'm not much help on this.

Jaelyn

Good morning Jaelyn;

I'd like confirmation to whom will the licence be issued to will it be University of Colorado Museum of Natural History or to yourself?

Thanks,
