Hi Phyllis,

Just some points of clarification.

1) Can I submit a project summary from my annual NRI report. It has already been translated.

2) In terms of site specific contingency plan. Our plan follows the normal guidelines. We don't really have fuel issues. Planes fly into PBP via Resolute and normally don't fuel up at Polar Bear Pass. If they do, the fuel is on gravel area away from any vegetation and water bodies. If there was a spill, I would consult with Polar Continental Shelf Project for guidance.

3) A better title might be: Hydrology of Extensive Low Gradeint High Arctic Wetlands: An Examination of Sustainability

Thanks for your help in clarifying these questions.

Best Regards, Kathy
