Phyllis, this email actually contains an A&R Plan for the NWB6HLC Licence (amendment, not sure if they even received the amendment yet!) Ken's email states that its for the NWB2KUG, but the Plan is for the HLC camp at Hope Lake.

confused yet, give me a call.

Dave

I believe so, I am also looking at another application with your name as a contact, NWB6HLC. This Licence required an A&R Plan as well, to be submitted back in November of '04. There doesn't appear to be a Plan on file. (my thoughts are that an A&R wasn't submitted as the camp was never in place?) Could you confirm that for me and if there hasn't been one submitted, would you foresee any difficulty in submitting one for this Licence (or it's amendment)? Env Can also had a concern with the state of the contaminated water source indicated as the reason for moving the camp. If you could, have a look at their submission on the ftp site and maybe give me an indication as to how we might proceed. I'm trying to work that into the amendment but your help would be appreciated.

good afternoon Martin,

Phyllis suggested that I give you a try with respect to the above application for renewal of NWB2KUG. Please see the emails below.

I haven't heard back from either of the two gentlemen below, nor Mr. Ken Weagle of EBA eng (phone message). I would like to know if you might be able to help out on this request so that the NWB can get this renewal finalized prior to expiry.

Regards,

Subject: NWB2KUG Renewal Application

Dear Sir,

With respect to the above noted application, the NWB has completed it's final technical review after receiving comments from interested persons with the deadline ending August 13, 2005. Upon review, it has come to the attention of the NWB that the A&R Plan requested in the current Licence was to be submitted to the NWB office by March, 2004 has not been received.

I has become practice of the NWB to hold licence renewals until conditions of current or previous licenses have been met. The current Licence expires on Sept 30, 2005 and should still allow adequate time to prepare the required A&R Plan as identified in Licence NWB2KUG0305. I have attached an A&R Plan that is on file with the NWB, public records, which gives a good outline and format of a plan that has been acceptable to the NWB. There are of course, areas of site specific need which may be addressed with the plan to be prepared for the Dismal Lake Project. I think the only section that had been requested to be revised in this document was section 1.11, and dealing with contaminated materials/soils discovered during restoration. This section needed to clarify what would be done with the materials, if collected, where it would be transported to for treatment/disposal and approval of the location for etc.

The Licence renewal draft has been prepared, with the submission of an A&R Plan from Coronation Minerals Inc. taken into account, and would simply require the approval of the Board once received, placing the issuance of the renewal prior to the expiry of the current Licence.

If you require further assistance, information or wish to discuss the above, please do not hesitate to contact me, or our Manager of Licensing at your convenience in the coming week.

Regards,

Dave
