Hi Megan,

After a review of the renewal application for licence 3BM-COR0813, submitted to the NWB February 20, 2014, the application is deemed incomplete. It is recommended that the application be resubmitted in consideration to the following comments:

1. It is recommended that the applicant review the quantity amount requested. The community consumed roughly 35 million L/year according to the 2012 Annual Report, and the application lists the 2012 population as 887. This equates to roughly 110 L/day per capita, not 90.2 L/day per capita as listed in the application. The proponent has requested a 10 year licence, but based off of the proponent's own population projections, population will be about 1100 in 2022 (Not taking into account that per capita use usually increases as communities mature). As such, this would be 44,165,000 L/year in 2022, which is significantly higher than the 35,000,000 currently requested.
2. In the licence renewal application, section 15 has sections that are checked but not elaborated on below.
3. The 2011 ANNDIC Inspection Report adamantly states that an updated compliance assessment should be submitted in 2012 indicating how the licensee plans to conform to licence conditions. NWB has no record of this assessment having been received, and the report is required to move forward with the application.
4. What is the status of the new pumphouse construction? The licence renewal application states that completion will
