Good day Richard,

As discussed on the phone, I want to clarify what are ECCC vs DND responsibilities in terms of water licence. Both ECCC and DND have a water licence for Eureka. We also both have a sewage lagoon. ECCC lagoon is located near the Main Complex and DND lagoon is located to the south of Fort Eureka (near the airstrip). We manage our water and sewage totally separately.

If I'm not mistaken, Eureka Main Complex and Fort Eureka are both located inside Eureka Land Reserve, which is the object of one Land Use Permit under the name of Environment and Climate Change Canada. I don't think that DND has its own Land Use Permit.

My question is: Are ECCC and DND completely autonomous with regards to water licences? For example, would ECCC be responsible for DND actions with their water usage and sewage lagoon ?

Best regards,

Jean-Philippe Cloutier-Dussault
